

Strength-based Student Profile: Anonymous Student

Some words that describe me are: kind, friendly, good builder/designer, respectful, hard-working

Some things that I am interested in are: biking, Lego, football, the outdoors, taking things apart, building things, remote control cars, comedy movies, design

The best ways for me to show what I know are: by telling you out loud, or by demonstrating with my hands

Some things that I need you to know about me are: I learn best with help. I am good at asking for help when I need it. I need wait time to process information. I need a reason for why I am learning something: I like to understand why something is important. I am still learning to read. Right now, I don't know how to read. I am a good listener, though. I have lots of anxiety around attendance and reading.

Some things that I want to get better at this year are reading and spelling. My goal this year is to learn to read. I would also like to learn how to spell. I want to keep coming to school regularly.

My Goal Areas	Strengths (What I am good at/know a lot about)	Stretches (What I still need support with/need to get better at)
Personal Goals (Things I can do on my own) I would like to bike down a very advanced mountain bike trail.	I am a good biker. I love biking. I can build and repair bikes with my dad and brother.	I am not quite ready to bike advanced bike trails with my dad and brother.
Social Goals (Things I can do with other people) I want to attend school regularly.	I am respectful, friendly, and kind. I get along well with my classmates.	I can get anxious about school, attendance, reading, and friendships. I get frustrated by the work at school. I am working on attending school regularly.
Intellectual Goals (Things I can learn and think about) I would like to learn to read this year. I would also like to learn how to spell.	I am great at memorization. I am very observant. I work very hard when I know what to do. I am a great listener. I am good at seeing/figuring out how things are put together. I am good at math.	I don't know how to read. I need a lot of support with learning to read or with reading books, stories, and articles.